I was called from the office as Mrs Gladys Richards had fallen in the Dining Room.

Gladys had fallen onto her right side.

As I approached her she was quiet & awake. I spoke to her, asked if she hurt. She made no indication that she had any pain.

Both legs were straight with no signs of shortening or rotation. We sat her up & she was fine. We then stood her & helped her to the armchair.

She was shocked but not distressed. We made her a cup of tea & helped whilst she drank it.

Gladys then settled down & slept.

I phoned Lesley to inform her of her Mothers accident.
