Today's date is Tuesday the 25th of July the year 2000, and the time by my watch is ten past eleven (11.10) in the morning. This interview is being conducted in an interview room at Fareham Police Station and at it's conclusion I'll give you a notice explaining what will happen to the tapes. I must remind you Doctor BARTON that at any time during this interview you have the right to legal advice, if you want to talk to Mr BARKER without us being present then please ask and we will leave the room. Your presence here is voluntary, you are not under arrest, you can leave at any time. Right, I also ought to say that you don't have to say anything but it may harm your defence if you do not mention when questioned something that you later rely on in court, anything you say may be given in evidence. If I can just point out this notice where it says that this interview room is capable of being monitored when the tape recorder is on the record mode only and with the tape running, a warning light will indicate when monitoring is taking place which is this red light here and at no other time can your conversation be overheard. Right that's my introduction.

We the police are investigating a complaint made by Mrs Gillian MACKENZIE and her sister Mrs LACK, into treatment afforded to their mother, Gladys RICHARDS who was a patient in the Gosport War Memorial Hospital particularly between the 17th and the 21st of August in 1998 and I understand that you were one of the doctors who were providing care for Mrs RICHARDS and I understand that you have a prepared statement that covers your dealings with Mrs RICHARDS and I'd invite you perhaps in your own time just to work through that statement and give me as much detail as you can about the dealings you had with Mrs RICHARDS.
