Dear Dr Knapman

NORMA WINDSOR Code A
 Code A

This lady remains considerably depressed by her itching skin eruption. As far as I can gather the main problem appears to be the fact that she can't sleep because of the itch. She describes a recurrent, papular eruption that occurs particularly on her arms and legs which then progresses to blisters which then weep yellow fluid.

Examination today revealed some papules over the flexor aspects of her wrists and some dryness of the shins, but no evidence of vesicles or bullae.

I have listed her for an open biopsy should further blisters occur. She continues on Cetirizine 10mgs 1 bd. I have added Hydroxyzine 25mgs 1 at night.

Yours sincerely
