Relatives of patients who died at Gosport hospital welcome 'long overdue' inquiry

THE families of patients who died in Gosport War Memorial Hospital have welcomed news that a panel will look into 92 unexpected deaths.

Health minister Norman Lamb has confirmed that a Hillsborough-style inquiry will examine events at the hospital in the 1990s that led to a higher-than-expected death rate.

Families who have always harboured suspicions about what happened to their loved ones, some of whom are pictured, say it can't come soon enough.
