[REDACTED] Review hearing: [REDACTED] was convicted of manslaughter in 2003 in relation to inadequate treatment of post-operative infection of [REDACTED]. Previous directions were for two periods of suspension (12 months each time) and then in November 2007 for conditions for three years. However, the FtPP also directed a review to take place within 18 months to 'allow him sufficient time to demonstrate progress in remedying his deficiencies'. The case has had a relatively high profile in the media over the years.
