

Archive | 2002 | August | 23 |

Help |

THIS IS Hampshire

Welcome

Transfer your balance to a Virgin Credit Card

First published on Friday 23 August 2002:

Hospital deaths files being sent to CPSby Daily Echo reporter> Home

Click here for the This is Hampshire home page

> News & Sport

More news and sport stories from across Hampshire

> Weather

Local, national and world forecasts

> Communitate

Member of a club or society? Get your own free website

> Marketplace

Jobs, cars, homes, online shopping and more

> Searchline

Use the power of the web to trace lost friends and family

> Archive

Search every story ever published on this website

> Family History

Let us help you trace your family tree

> Hampshire Food

Hampshire Cooking and recipes

> Business South

Business South magazine online

> Contact

Contact details for this site and our local newspapers

THE FILES of eight elderly patients who died at Gosport War Memorial Hospital are set to be referred to the Crown Prosecution Service this month by Hampshire police.

The move follows an earlier investigation by police following concerns over the use of pain killers at the hospital, although no prosecutions were brought at the time.

An investigation was launched by police following allegations that a woman was unlawfully killed at the hospital in 1998.

Detectives sent a file to prosecutors who later dropped the case claiming there was insufficient evidence to press charges against the Bury Road hospital.

Speaking yesterday, Deputy Chief Constable of Hampshire police, Ian Redhead, said: "The purpose of the police service is to submit the evidence in our possession to the Crown Prosecution Service.

"That has happened, but there are some additional things that have occurred and it is right that the Crown give us a view in relation to that. If the CPS say we would like you to do some more work we will take cognisance of that."

An investigation team from the Commission for Health Improvement interviewed staff, patients and relatives of former patients as part of a wider investigation into the care of older people.

Its report, which was published last month, ~~did not rule out that poor drug prescribing practices contributed to the death of patients at the hospital.~~

But the commission also concluded it was unable to determine if levels of drug prescription contributed to the death of patients.

Criticism was also levelled at Portsmouth Healthcare NHS Trust which, the commission said, should have responded earlier to concerns raised by relatives of patients who died at the hospital.

The report concluded:

> Southern Daily Echo
Southampton and the surrounding regions

- ~~There were insufficient local prescribing guidelines and the lack of a rigorous, routine review of pharmacy data~~

> Hampshire Chronicle
Winchester news, sport and features

- ~~There were no arrangements in place for the adequate supervision of clinical assistants working on Dryad and Daedalus wards in 1998~~

> Basingstoke Gazette
Basingstoke news, sport and features

- ~~The CHI found no evidence that the impact of changes since 1999 had been robustly monitored and reviewed.~~

> Andover Advertiser
Andover news, sport and features

Doctors and nurses from the hospital are set to appear at the General Medical Council next week for professional conduct hearings.

Search the archive:

Enter your search word(s):