Housing Developments in Gosport

Cherque Farm

1200 dwellings by 2011. Phased project starting in the North and working South. Phase I is for approximately 150 dwellings. This is due to start within the next 2 years (1999). As part of the development there is planned a new road to connect Lee with Rowner. Shops and a school are planned for this development.

Priddy's Hard

700 dwellings by 2011. Phased project. Before outlined planning permission can be given and the Ministry of Defence can sell the land, the land will need to be decontaminated. Outlined planning permission is due to come for approval within 12 months to 2 years (1998 - 1999). Retail and business units are planned for this development.

Daedalus

500 dwellings by 2011 based on land where existing buildings are situated. There is unlikely to be any development here until 2001. Retail and business units are planned for this development, although it is anticipated that the Fareham development area will be predominantly retail and housing.

Royal Clarence Yards/St. George North

300 dwellings by 2011. This will be phased and is likely to start within the next 2 years (1999). It is anticipated that this will be high density housing and the figure of 300 dwellings is a conservative estimate. The figure may well be more than that quoted. Retail and business units are planned for this development.

All the above developments are of course subject to the conditions within the housing market and may take longer to develop.
