Good morning, gentlemen

Just to keep you updated about the position of a response from the practitioners in this case, please see my email exchange with the RCN, concluding today.

Kind regards

Good morning, Chris

Thank you for the update. I will advise the PPC that a response will be forthcoming and will confirm when we receive it.

As a precaution, please send the letters by fax today.

Strictly speaking, there are no pages missing from the bundle as it is presented as an extract of the proceedings, however I am happy to attach a full copy of day 18. If you would like a full set of the transcript of the coroner's inquest, please let me know and I will send a set by hard copy.

Please let me know if you want the attachment sent to any of the practitioners the RCN is representing in this case.

Kind regards

Dear Code A

I do not think that I will be able to get the full RCN response to you by tomorrow. I am sorry about this. I propose to put this in the post tomorrow. I will send it 'guaranteed next day delivery, by 10am.' It will arrive by 10am on Monday.

The response will consist of 7 letters (one for each practitioner) and a bundle of documents. I can fax or email all the letters to you tomorrow; however, the bundle is too large to email or fax.

I hope that this will be satisfactory Code A

There appears to be 49 pages missing from the Coroner's summing up in the bundle you sent me. Page 162 is 'Day 18-6'; page 163 is 'Day 18-55'. I would very much like these pages! Would it be possible for you to scan these pages and email them to me?

I am out of the office today, but can be contacted on my mobile, Code A

Many thanks

Chris
