Dear Mr Horsley,

My husband, Ronald Dudley
Siggins, died in the Gosport War
Memorial Hospital on 20th June 1999.

He was transferred from St. Marys Hospital with M.R.S.A. and, quite quickly, had a syringe driver.

He had no fluids by mouth and was at no time on a drip.

I was told to find a nursing home
for him.

The cause of death on his death
certificate was 'diabetes mellitus', so it was difficult for me to question
this.

A quick peek at his notes
showed 'komezpan' at night.

The hospital was very clean, however,
and the nurses friendly.

Yours sincerely,

Dora Higgins. S.R.N.
