

Mr Wilson

Code A

I am finding it difficult to understand the contents of your email below when Mr White has already been holding this very sensitive material, perhaps you can explain? Further more you are quite aware that Mr White had been sent this information so why write me the story about what a massive task it has been, (see email below)? It would have been considerate for someone to have informed me that this sensitive material has been released.

I have been waiting a very long time to view this documentation having been stopped from doing so by various government bodies over the years, the whole thing is quite disgraceful to say the least.

Could you please explain to me why you have sent my documents to Mr White? I had already confirmed with you that he would not be representing
