

Notes:

Dr Jane Ann Barton (nee Bulstrode) Code A
Graduated Oxford, 1972. The practice is referred to as the Knapman practice.

Clinical assistant on Daedalus and Dryad wards, Gosport War Memorial Hospital, Portsmouth Healthcare NHS Trust (this trust was dissolved in 2002, being replaced by PCTs). Dryad ward has 20 beds, patients are admitted under the care of a consultant, with some day to day care provided by a clinical assistant. Daedalus Ward has 16 continuing care and 8 slow stream rehabilitation beds. Patients are admitted under the care of a consultant, some day to day care being provided by a clinical assistant. Sultan ward has 24 beds, care being managed by the patient's own GP. The hospital has a total of 113 beds and is designated a community hospital.

Patients on Dryad and Daedalus must be 65 or older, registered with a local GP, have a Barthel under 4/20 and require specialist medical and nursing intervention. Daedalus patients must need multidisciplinary rehabilitation, for example as after a stroke.

The CHI report makes clear that prescribing of opiates and haloperidol was high in 1998 (the year concerns were raised, and a police inquiry was begun), but lower in subsequent years.

The clinical assistant was employed for 5 sessions per week from 1994 until July 2000. When on leave, cover was provided by the practice partners.
